PROBABLE CASE OF INFANTIGIDE.—The body of an infant child was found in the river on the South Side, Tuesday evenings, under circumstanens which point strongly to infanticide. A couple of boys named Seamon, while playing on the river bank near 36th street, noticed a strange looking object floating in the water, and to satisfy their curiosity as to what it was they with some little difficulty succeeded in fishing it out. It proved to be the body of a female child, sewed up in a strong piece of muslin. Justice Schultz was immediately notified of the finding of the body, and at once proceeded to the locality and summoned a jury for the purpose of holding an inquest. Upon examining the body the jurors were startled at discovering marks upon the neck, apparently made by a stout cord, as if the child had been strangled to death. This horrible suspicion was cord, as it the child had been strangled to death. This horrible suspicion was strengthened by the finding of a large pouch, filled with sand, which had been sewed to the body for the evident purpose of causing it to sink in the river. The child weighed about fifteen pounds, and aithough not more than two hours old at the time of its death, it bore every rediestion of having come late the could

There was no evidence before the jury except that of the two boys who found the body, and the paternity of the child, and the secret of its horrible death, may forever remain a mystery. The jury, after due deliberation, returned the following wardiet: and Fancy Shawls go to I. BLUM & BRO.

In May of the same year, Mrs. Hubbard followed him. The journey was a trying and perilous one. She was seven days and nights in passing, by stage, from Philadelphia to Pittaburgh, carrying her boy, Chester, then a babe of six months, on her lap. The whole journey required fifteen days, the distance from New Haven to Philadelphia being made by a sloop. This jaunt by a salling vessel and by stage, across mountains, into the wilderness, was more than a trip across the continent at the present time.

PUBLIC ESTERTAINMENTS.—Great Destruction of Esster-Eggs.—The first Sunday School Easter-Eggs.—The first Sunday School Easter-Egg-Breaking which has ever taken place in the world, so far as is known, was celebrated before a delightful audience at the Opera House last night. About six weeks ago the officers of the English Evan. Lutheran Sunday School of 16th street, this city—a school whose reputation for energy and solid work in Christian matters is known thoroughout the land—gave to every scholar and teacher who voluntarily accepted it, an Easter or Wheeling Mission Nest Egg made of potter's clay, in which to gather contributions to help reduce their chapel debt. These eggs were to be opened or broken on Easter Monday, but on account of the absence of Mr. Barnits the unique entertainment did not take place until last night. At an early hour hundreds of scholars with their teachers and parents were wending their way to the Opera House, this building being used because their church building is too small for even the school to take part in ore noy the unusual ceremony of breaking "nest eggs." The exercises were commenced by singing the old hymn, "Crown Him Lord of All," to the tune of Coronation, followed by a prayer of thanksgiving and nestition. Then came a beautiful Easter

by singing the old hymn, "Crown Him Lord of All," to the tune of Coronation, followed by a prayer of thanksgiving and petition. Then came a beautiful Easter exercise by thirteen little girls, illustrated with music and flowers. Following this the first dozen of eggs were broken with a large knife by Mr. Ed. Huggins, assistant to Miss Robertson, of the Jewel Department. The shining nickels and dimes and pennies were poured into baskets or plates and handed to the Committee on Pinance, who counted the money and registered the names, and at intervals made proclamation of the same. The singing was in charge of Prof. J. H. Leslie, the editor of the Musical Adocate, published at Altoons, Pa., and the author of several very excellent Sunday School Music Books. Eyery selection was new and rendered with fine effect, showing the ability of Prof. Leslie to make music and to teach children how to sing it. Our space forbids a more detailed account of this unique entertainment, which has been talked about for many weeks. One hundred and thirty-seven eggs were dollars and fifty-two cents. The wor-which may be written down as describin the affair from beginning to end is suc

and proved that we have among us persons who can give an entertainment equal to the best troupes that travel. The ability of Prof. Nicholl, who kindly left his duties to afford our people an opportunity of hearing him, has been rated highly. The two selections "Cachoucha" Caprice by Raff, and "Sonato Op. 22" by Beethonen, were played in the most masterly manner, proving him to be a most worthy expenent of the classic music. Mrs. Shelb's reputation as a vocalist was fully austained in her rendition of the capityating song "A Damsel Fair" by Ganz, and in the trying "Scena and Aria" from "Der Freischutz" she laid claim to and supported the position of our best trained and most able soprano. It is seldom that we hear this lady in public concert, but when we do we have something worthy of listening to. The "Kinder Sinfonie" was the most decidedly unique performance we ever heard, and the ladies and gentlemen who played the cuckoos, triangles, drums, castanets, trumpets, rattles, etc., made melody and amusement in a manner we could scarce have be lisseed possible. The cantata. the "Lesho can give an entertainment equal t rattles, etc., made melody and amusement in a manner we could scarce have be lieved possible. The cantata, the "Legend of Don Munio," bore out its reputation of beauty and interest, and it far exceeds in starling worth any of the cantatas we have had given here. The programme was lengthy, but everything was sung in such excellent time and style that the audience was far from being wearied, indeed regretted there was not more of it. All the numbers were sung with a vim and determination to do well, so that we can scarce particularize one chorus becan scarce particularize one chords beyond another as being the best, all were done so well. The solos gave evidence of very careful study, and Mrs. Annie M. Sheib, who had the matter more particularly in charge, is to be congratulated upon her success. Our friend, Mr. Sheib, appeared in a new role as conductor, and in that nosition friend, Mr. Sheib, appeared in a new role as conductor, and in that position won envisible credit. Unfortunately Mr. Guttenberg and Mias E. De Camp were troubled with colds, necessitating the substitution of other singers in their parts on very short notice. Our space forbids a more extended notice of the Cantata at this moment, but we may refer to it again. All in all, those taking part in the concert deserve the most decided praise, and we regret other arrangements prevent an early repetition of it, for it deserves to be heard again and again. A FOOT RACE BETWEEN HEAVY WHIGHTR.—Yesterday Col. Bob Delaplain and Maj. Tom Norton, two of the heaviest weights in the city, while discussing the marvellous feats of O'Leary, Weston and Von Hillern, became so enthused over pedestrianism that they agreed to run a half-mile race for a small wager. It was arranged that they would quietly walk over to the Fair Ground in the dusk of the evening, and try their mettle unobserved. Evening came, and the gentlemen entered the arena at the appointed hour, no doubt congratulating themselves that they had escaped observation. But Mike Loftus, Superintendent of the Citizens' Street Railroad, had his eye at a knot hole in the fence, and saw the whole thing. The race was against time, and the Major won, making his half mile in 57 minutes, to the Colonel's 7 minutes. Just before the last man came in Mike rushed frantically to the stables for a backet of water, a sponge, and a bottle, but when he returned with these very necessary artiples the Falstaffian heroes had disappeared.

THE GREAT SEVEN-ELEPHART SHOW.

Little need be now editorially added to attract attention to the coming, on Tuesday next, of the Great European 7-Elephant Railroad Show. As far as our circulation reaches it is the one great abject of expectancy and universal theme of conversation, and upon the memorable day of its visit there promises to be a object of expectancy and universal theme of conversation, and upon the memorable day of its visit there promises to be a temporary depopulation of the surrounding country for a distance of at least twenty miles, and such a tidal wave of excited and delighted humanity in our streeis as even "the oldest inhabitant" can not remember. That the exhibition is vast and inviting beyond all precedent is amply vouched for, and that it will many times repay the expense and trouble of a visit is equally certain. We need not recapitulate the extraordinary and exclusive features it presents, as they are already familiar to all of our readers, and the herd of seven elephants and the other sitractions have been more talked about than were ever the famous Seven other attractions have been more talked about than were ever the famous Seven Sleepers. Come in time to see the mag-nificent street parade in the morning bring the whole family suth you, enjoy a right royal holiday, and go back to the office, farm, and workshop re-invigorated and; refreshed, with better fieads and light-er hearts.
